Good Morning Fellowship!

How can we build strong relationships, even with the most challenging people? This morning, we will explore the mindset outlined in 1 Peter 3:8-17 that equips us, through Christ, to overcome the difficult relationships we face.

Grant Kaul, Senior Pastor

Loving Well: Practical Wisdom for Difficult Relationships

1 Peter 3:8-17

Relationships are not primarily about our happiness but about reflecting God's holiness, experiencing His presence, and expressing His character in our lives.

How do we build good relationships, even with the challenging people in our lives?

1. Resolve to love people well

3:8-9

2. Remember, we are blessed to be a blessing

3:9-12

3. Revere Christ as Lord in our hearts

3:13-17

We live well when we love well.

Affirming Christ as Lord of our hearts is the key to genuinely loving the people in our lives.

My personal application of this passage:

Questions for individual study and LIFE Groups:

1. Why is it challenging to love the “extra-grace required people” we know?
2. Why is it important for Christians to be committed to loving others, and what are some benefits for doing so?
3. Can you cite some specific examples of how you saw a believer practice some of the elements of Christian love that you find in verse 8 and the impressions it has made on you?
4. In what ways do you exhibit the characteristics we find in this passage? Why does God call us to such behavior?
5. In what practical ways can we honor Christ as Lord of our hearts? How does our attitude toward Christ affect how we live?
